DEMPSEY IS BEST HEAVY CHAMP EVER SAYS BAT NELSON

Old Lightweight Boss Believes
Jack Should Be More Careful in Bouts.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Bat Nelson, the battle-scarred veteran of what Ring Lardner has called the roped arena, was talking about the fight.

"Nothing to it but Dempsey, Carp never had a chance. He didn't figure."

He made a face as he waved his hand, shaking away imaginary flies. "This Dempsey has 'em all stopped. There never before was a big fellow with the punishing power that Jack has."

"Heavy hitters of other days are only a laugh to me. Dempsey does with two or three punches what it took others hours to do. He's all alone. I know they all say that, but I mean it. I've watched the big fellows and I know."

"I can see two or three things in Jack Dempsey's fighting that could be improved on, though." Here Bat took out a pencil and began to illustrate.

Feet in Wrong Position.
"In the first place, Jack boxes with his feet in the wrong position. He's set all the time to hit. What I mean is that he fights the same way he punches a bag. He shouldn't do that. He should have the right foot back a bit in case he's hit. It's easy to knock a fellow over when his feet are in the wrong position. See what I mean?"

"Then, again, I say he should cover up a bit more when he steps into trade punches. You know he's careless that way. He sort of feels that he can take the other fellow's punch, and wants to get his in. He shouldn't take them. He could avoid them easily and get in close just the same."

"Old Time" folks didn't kiln dry lumber or make shingles out of "culls." The forests furnished abundant fine wood and those "honest to goodness" folks used to burn such wood as we have to build with now-a-days.

Warren House Paint was made nearly a half-century ago before "commercial" pastes, pigments and petroleum products were discovered (?) for paint purposes. And Warren paints are still made of the same good old fashioned pure oils and pigments as in the "honest to goodness" days gone by.

Come in and get a Warren color card and let us help you estimate and select an artistic color combination.

Intrepid Indian Rider

While Freddie Ludlow and Maudwin Jones, star Harley-Davidson riders, compose a formidable team, local followers of motorcycle racing are of the opinion that Don Marks and Gene Walker, classy Indian pair, will take their measure when these four compete with an all-star field in the five and ten mile professional events at Springbrook park next Sunday afternoon.

Marks has won a host of followers here through his daring riding and shared honors with his team-mate, the national dirt-road champion, at the last racing card here. At that meeting Marks made the best time of the day in the one-mile trial heats and came close to breaking Jones' previous record for that distance. He also won the first five-mile event rather handily and pressed Walker all the way in the second, losing only by a few yards in the most thrilling event of the day. In the 15-mile state championship event, he was compelled to stop at the pits several times on account of engine trouble and was at last forced out for good after putting up a great exhibition.

Ludlow and Jones are two of the most popular racers that ever appeared here, however, winning event after event here last year. Their work has been more or less overshadowed this year, though, by the spectacular work of the Indian team, and they are anxious to win back an additional amount of prestige by a victory Sunday.

Included amongst the seven events on the program are two motorcycle races for local riders, which should prove a great attraction to the fans. They were tried out last year by Promoter Wagner and "went over big." A prominent editor for a leading motorcycle publication in Chicago commenting in his column that the innovation was a great success and likening the noise of the motors on the getaway to a "swarm of bumblebees." A side-car race for South Bend riders is also included in the card, the other four events being the "big time" pro races.

The track at Springbrook has been entirely resurfaced in special preparation for the Sunday attraction and several long-standing records are likely to fall.

BROOKLYN, July 12.—Marquard's pitching and batting enabled Cincinnati to defeat Brooklyn Tuesday, 5 to 4. Score:

Martin claimed after the fight that he had broken his hand in the second round which prevented him from winning sooner.

Moran appeared fat and slow. He took numerous lefts on the jaw in an endeavor to land his right, nicknamed "Mary Ann," but managed to put it over clearly only once in the second round, when he staggered the soldier pugilist.

A right to the jaw and a shower of body blows downed Moran who lay on his back as he was counted out. Martin received much punishment although he was fast on his feet and scored heavily on the exchanges.

Moran weighed 200 pounds and Martin 185.

Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh, an Olympic lightweight boxing champion, dislocated his shoulder in the fourth round of a six round match with Artie Martin of New York. Zivic had the better of the contest until he was injured.

Joe Burman, Chicago, bantamweight, was awarded the judge's decision over Charles Ledoux, French bantamweight champion, after a fast 12 round contest.

Yanks Beat Kerr

DICKY KERR.

The New York Yanks finally broke the Indian spell that Dick Kerr, diminutive southpaw finger for the White Sox, had cast over them.

After winning four consecutive games against Miller Huggins' high-batted outfit Dick met his first reverse of the season at their hands in Chicago Monday.

Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel each poled a homer off Wes Dickie with one man. Those were the only runs scored by the Yanks, but they proved enough for the White Sox batters were held safely in check by Rip Collins the entire nine innings, being unable to cross the plate even once.

Thus far this season the Sox have tangled the Yanks nine times out of 12 games, Kerr accounting for four of the victories of the scrapping Glenasmiths.

to Win Final.

By Associated Press:
TOLEDO, O., July 12.—Jeanette Rankin, winner of the Tavern "Steak" at Cleveland last week, had little trouble in capturing the Tecumseh $5,000 stake, feature of the second day's racing at the Port Miami track. After winning the race, McDonald did not make a drive in the last heat, which was won by Princess Etawah.

Ennie Bell, the Peter Volo filly, was the class of the field in the three-year-old Stakes, the other feature of the day.

The big upset of the first division of the 2:15 pace was the dislodging of Prince Loree, prohibitive in the betting, in the first heat after he went to a bad break and McDevitt could not get him back going again until the procession was home.

Abbe Hal won the race after it looked as though Palm had laid up the first heat. Palm also drove Hoosier Lady to victory in the 2:05 pace, the first race of the day. In this race Hoosier Lady finished last in the first heat, in then came on and won handily. The judges announced that decision was reserved.
